Gentlemen: Attention: Miss O'Connell, Librarian

While in Grand Rapids, Michigan, some time ago there was pointed out to me a Lincoln bust which stands in the park near the Museum.

I am wondering if you would be willing to tell me the name of the sculptor and if pictures of the bust are available, will you forward one to me.

We would also be interested in knowing when the bust was dedicated and who donated it.

Very truly yours,

Dear Sir:

This is in response to your letter of May 23 addressed to the attention of Miss O'Connell, Librarian, who is a non-existent personality on our staff.

The incscription on the granite shaft supporting the bronze bust of Lincoln in the little park adjacent to the Museum is as follows:

L I N C O L N

GOVERNMENT
OF THE PEOPLE
BY THE PEOPLE
FOR THE PEOPLE
SHALL NOT PERISH FROM THE EARTH

Presented by
Lorraine Pratt Immen

The name of the sculptor is A. A. Weinmen.

The City Park Department informs me that no pictures of the bust are available. If, however, you care to stand the expense, I shall be glad to arrange to have photographs of it made and sent to you.

If I can be of any further assistance to you in this matter kindly let me know.

Yours very truly,

Frank L. DuMond

WEHMA 4 - BUST

May 28, 1935

Mr. Frank L. DuMond, Director
Kent Scientific Museum
Grand Rapids, Michigan

My dear Mr. DuMond:

Thank you very much for your interest in compiling for me the data with reference to the bust of Lincoln in the park adjacent to the Museum.

I have a friend in Grand Rapids who I think will be very glad to photograph the bust for me and I regret that they advised me wrongly with respect to the name of the librarian.

Your interest in gathering all information about Lincoln memorials in America occurred to me as I drove by the very beautiful bust of Lincoln in your park and felt that it should be recorded in our compilation of memorials.

Very truly yours,

FAMOUS WORDS

Few Stop to Read Them, Even Today

The craggy visage of Abraham Lincoln has gazed west from the small park at State and Washington Sts. since 1913, but it is a rare passerby who stops to notice, even on the anniversary of the Great Emancipator.

♦ ♦ ♦

THIS BUST, a replica of the head of Lincoln in Chicago's Lincoln Park, was designed by Adolph Alexander Weinman of New York and donated to the City June 2, 1913, by the late civic and cultural leader, Mrs. Loraine Pratt Imman, who also gave the bust of Longfellow and the fountain in Fulton Park.

Mrs. Imman, who died at the age of 87 Oct. 20, 1927, was the widow of Frederick Imman, prominent in the earlier history of Grand Rapids. A charter member of the Ladies Literary Club and one of the organizers of the Grand Rapids Federation of Women's Clubs, she lectured on literature throughout the country, and was an authority on the works of Shakespeare.

"THE world will little note nor long remember what we say here," the tall, sad-faced Lincoln said Nov. 19, 1863, as he dedicated the National Cemetery at Gettysburg, but the final words of his brief address, some of which are engraved on this pedestal and on the hearts and memories of millions of Americans will be remembered as long as there is such a thing as freedom.

"—that we here highly resolve," Lincoln had said, "that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

ADOLPH ALEXANDER WEINMAN

Sculptor, who was born in Karlsruhe, Germany, in 1870. He came to America in 1880 as a boy of ten and was later apprenticed to Kaldenberg a carver of wood and ivory. During his apprenticeship he attended evening classes in drawing and modeling at the Cooper Institute, New York and at the Students' League where he was awarded the prize in the modeling class. At the age of nineteen he became the pupil of Philip Martiny, and later became an assistant to Saint Gaudens, Olin Warner and D. C. French. He has been engaged professionally as a sculptor since 1891. Awarded the silver medal at the St. Louis Exposition, 1904; won competition for the Monument to General Alexander Macomb in Detroit, 1906; Maryland Union Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument in Baltimore, 1907; the Lincoln Memorials in Hodgenville, Kentucky, and in Madison, Wisconsin; also the Lincoln statue, rotunda of State Capitol, Frankfort, Ky.; the War Memorial at Forest Hill, N. Y. He designed the new dime and half dollar for 1916. In 1911 he was elected a Member of the National Academy of Design, also a member of the National Sculpture Society. Received gold medal of honor in Sculpture from the Architectural League of New York, also the Widener gold medal at the Penna. Academy of Fine Arts, 1926 for his "Narcissus" Address, 441 West 21st. St., New York City, N. Y.

Among his works:

ADOLPH ALEXANDER WEINMAN 1870-1952

Born in Karlsruhe, Germany; died in Portchester, New York. Weinman was brought to the United States in 1880. As a youth he was apprenticed to a carver of wood and ivory. He studied at the Cooper Union and the Art Students League in New York and under Augustus Saint-Gaudens and Philip Martiny, and worked as a studio assistant with Charles Niehaus, Olin Warner, and Daniel Chester French. Weinman designed the United States dime and half dollar of 1916. However, he was most well known for his architectural sculpture. He was a member of the Architectural League of New York and the National Academy of Design.

Pennsylvania German needlework

THE HERSHEY MUSEUM of American Life in Hershey, Pennsylvania, has just opened an exhibition entitled Decorative Needlework of the Pennsylvania Germans, drawn from the museum's own extensive Pennsylvania-German collections. The show may be seen until April 30. Included in the display are about twenty narrow linen show towels, none of which has ever been exhibited before. Among the other exhibits is a handkerchief dated 1774, a wedding handkerchief dated 1787, a needlework picture dated 1798, and an unfinished piece worked on very fine gauze and probably intended as a handkerchief. This depicts Adam and Eve, an unusual subject for such needlework. Another rare example in the show is an outstanding, though faded, embroidered pillowcase, possibly made for a wedding bed. One of the latest pieces exhibited is a sampler by Mary Graybill, dated 1830, on which the embroidered inscription indicates that Sarah Forney taught her. The range of objects includes a wide variety of pieces that illustrate both characteristic and unusual aspects of Pennsylvania-German needlework. Familiar designs, such as the peacock and carnations, are seen along with unusual stitchery, odd spelling, and interesting colors. Metalware, fraktur, and other decorated objects are shown with the needlework to illustrate common designs and motifs.

The exhibition is part of a continuing program at the Hershey Museum to make available to the public

Note: This bronze is a cast of the study for the head of Christ which is incorporated in the memorial to Reverend Phillips Brooks which stands in a niche outside Trinity Church in Copley Square, Boston. The memorial, which was erected in 1907, and unveiled in 1910, depicts Brooks preaching from the pulpit with the solemn figure of Christ looming behind, His right hand placed on Brooks' left shoulder. As Saint-Gaudens worked on this monument from 1896-1907 it is believed to be his last work.
